‘From the Heart’: HANCOCK NATIVE PROVIDES SUPPORT FOR LOCAL FAMILIES BATTLING CANCER

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

Michael has truly been a blessing to me,” Elaine Parker of Bay St. Louis said. “He does it from his heart. Love is an action word. And if you don’t show it, it is in vain. People throw that word around so easily.”

The Michael that Elaine speaks of is Hancock County native Michael Joseph. In addition to his real estate job in Texas, he is also the founder of Constance Cares for Cancer.

Michael’s mother, Constance Joseph of Waveland, passed away in 2012 from colon cancer.

Long before his mother became ill, Michael vowed that, once he found his own success, he would return to his hometown and give back.

He has done that in the form of backpack giveaways during back-to-school months and now, through Constance Cares for Cancer, he provides financial support for local families battling cancer.

Prior to his mother’s illness, Michael said, he never realized the full extent of the struggles and burdens associated with not only the cancer treatments themselves, but also finding reliable transportation and lodging for those who seek treatment at MD Anderson in Houston.

“I wanted to take our pain and turn it into a passion, and impact other lives with the same struggle,” Michael said.

In addition to raising funds, Michael also drives from Houston to Hancock County to pick up patients like Elaine and take them back to Houston for their treatments.

Back in April of this year, doctors told Elaine she had stage 2 lung cancer.

She said that her insurance would not cover some of her treatments. For about a month, she went to doctors in Biloxi and Ocean Springs, who she said were seeing her, but not treating her.

“A friend of mine went to MD Anderson in Houston and I asked the doctors here to refer me there,” she said.

Elaine said her younger brother, after working

Former employees of BWSD allege racial discrimination; sexual harrasment in lawsuit

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE

Two former employees of the Bay-Waveland School District on Oct. 3 filed separate complaints in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi claiming that during their employment, they were subjected to “race discrimination, racial harassment, and retaliation in violation of Title VII (of the Civil Rights Act of 1964).”

Along with the Bay-Waveland School District, Dino Tenorio and Charles Schwartz are also named as defendants.

In the first complaint, plaintiff Lilia Flores-Martinez, a hispanic female and resident of Ocean Springs, said she was employed by the BWSD as a customodial employee from January 2018 until April 23, 2019. She was assigned to Bay-Waveland Middle School.

According to the complaint, Flores-Martinez filed a charge of employment discrimination with the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission on July 11, 2019 in which she said that “the defendant has subjected her to race discrimination, race harassment, sexual harassment, national origin discrimination, national origin harassment, and retaliation in violation of Title VII.”

Flores-Martinez received a right-to-sue notice from the EEOC for the defendant, the complaint states.

Flores-Martinez alleges in the complaint that onsite supervisor, “Schwartz (a white male) began to harass plaintiff and other employees.”

Hancock High moves to distance learning for 14 days due to “COVID-19 surge”

ECHO STAFF

Last Wednesday, officials at Hancock High School on Wednesday announced the decision to close the Hancock High campus for the next 14 days for in-person learning.

The announcement came via a Facebook post from Hancock High School’s page.

“Considering the Labor Day holiday, hurricane evacuations, and other events; our community is experiencing a surge in COVID-19 cases,” the post states. “As a result, we have an increasing number of positive cases in the school setting. Based on contact tracing efforts by Hancock High staff, we have determined that these cases are not likely school spread, but rather the result of community spread. The Mississippi Department of Health recommends that a school close when three or more individual classes or groups experience an outbreak and we have met that criteria.”

“Today, the district learned of additional positive cases among the student body, a day after the football team was sent home to quarantine,” the Hancock

Gov. Tate Reeves announced his new Safe Recovery order, Executive Order No. 1525.

This order replaces the Safe Return and its amendments and combines all social distancing measures into one executive order, a release from the governor’s office states.

“I have always tried to stress the important balance of this time; we cannot allow our system to collapse, and we should not use the heavy-hand of government more than it is justified,” Reeves said Wednesday. “We have to tailor our actions to the current threat and make sure that they do

In one month, Elaine said, she underwent 30 rounds of radiation for three weeks in a row, two times a day.

To help offset some of her medical costs, the members of First Missionary Baptist Church in Pass Christian hosted a benefit for Elaine.

When Michael came home for a visit, Elaine said, someone told him she had cancer.

“His mom and I were friends,” Elaine said. “I hadn’t seen him since he was a baby. God puts people in our lives for a reason. He’s a man now, but he’s still a child to me. This young man is sticking by me. He wanted to take some of the burden off my family.”

Elaine said her cancer has been a struggle, but her family and the community have come together to help her.

members in need.

“My ministry is helping,” she said. “I don’t want a pity party. I ask the Lord what his will is and it’s up to me to do it. At times, I sit and cry, but I don’t question God. I still have my faith.”

Elaine will return to Houston in November and she said she is hoping for good results.

“I wouldn’t wish this on my worst enemy,” she said. “This cancer is real and people really need to take it seriously. Cancer doesn’t discriminate. There are so many people going through this.”

When it comes to Michael’s service to his hometown, Elaine said, his mother would be so proud.

“He helps this community,” she said. “He loves to help people.”

Constance Cares for Cancer is collaborating with Helping Hands-Waveland; Retrofit-Bay St. Louis; and the Hancock County NAACP to host a car parade for cancer awareness on Sat. Oct., 24 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The parade begins at

Martin Luther King, Jr., Park on Herlihy Street in Waveland and travels to Martin Luther King, Jr., Park in Bay St. Louis on Washington Street, Joseph said.

“COVID-19 will determine the interaction at the park in Bay St. Louis, taking into consideration those who are on chemo and radiation treatment with a higher risk of getting an infection because white and red blood cells are in a rebuild state,”

Joseph said.

After the parade, Constance Cares for Cancer will present checks to families in need to help cover medical and personal expenses related to cancer treatments, Joseph said. Proceeds are evenly distributed amongst families.

“We ask that anyone who has won the battle with cancer or even lost someone to it to decorate your vehicle and join us in the parade in memory of your loved one,” Joseph said. “We encourage those who have won to share your testimony with those in the midst of the storm to give them hope that, with God’s help, they can overcome this battle as well.”

Waveland voters say ‘yes’ to MS Power franchise agreement

ECHO STAFF

Voters in the city of Waveland on Monday voted to renew the city’s franchise agreement with Mississippi Power Company.

The agreement allows for the city to receive three percent of revenue generated from residential, commercial, and industrial accounts.

Waveland City Clerk Mickey Lagasse said that the final count was 127 votes for the agreement and 10 votes against.

Without this agreement, the city would only have received two percent of the generated revenue.

The extra one percent equates to about $30,000 to $50,000 and is put into the city’s general fund.

The University of Mississippi has partnered with the Saint Stanislaus Marine Science Program to conduct experiments as part of a research project that will address critical research gaps in the north-central Gulf of Mexico on water quality and how it relates to oyster reefs and their sustainability. The University of Mississippi received a grant from the Mississippi Based RESTORE Act Center of Excellence (MBRACE) to conduct this oyster toxicology research which will analyze oyster response to specific environmental stressors. Project leaders from the university reached out to Saint Stanislaus to help carry out the experiments. “This is a great project and an incredible opportunity for our marine science students to be a part of. They will be able to get first-hand experience in conducting collegiate level research and reporting their findings back to project leaders. This particular

The results from these experiments will provide critical data on the resiliency of oysters in the Mississippi Sound and the Gulf of Mexico region after experiencing environmental stressors, such as those associated with excess freshwater influence,” said Letha Boudreaux, Saint Stanislaus Marine Science Program Director. Students from Saint Stan-

HYPE Hangout 1 was a blast!

SEA COAST ECHO

Hancock Youth for Positive Efforts (HYPE) is an adult-guided, youth-led initiative that empowers middle and high school students to lead engaged, healthy, and positive lifestyles. A partnership with the Hancock Resource Center and the Hancock Community Coalition, HYPE serves as a resource and platform for students and community members dedicated to promoting safe and healthy environments for our youth. HYPE Hangout 1 was held on September 12th, 2020. Sixteen HYPE members volunteered to spend a Saturday decorating trash cans with positive messages and encouragement to lead a healthy, drug and alcohol-free lifestyle as middle and high schoolers. Hangout 1 was hosted at the Bay St. Louis Creative Arts Center thanks to the hospitality of Steve Barney and his staff, who were both welcoming and supportive of the students’ mission! This project is an expansion of an earlier venture by past HYPE students, which resulted in several of the painted trash cans placed throughout downtown Bay St. Louis. Fourteen trash cans were created in total and can be found on all of the Hancock County middle and high school campuses (Hancock High School, Hancock Middle School, Our Lady Academy, Holy Trinity Catholic School, Bay Middle School, Bay High School, and St.

Stanislaus College). The HYPE members worked hard to develop thoughtful and bright designs, and had a blast bringing them to life! The purpose of HYPE Hangouts is to provide fun, safe, and substance-free opportunities for sixth through twelfth graders in Hancock County to serve the community while building the foundation for successful futures. The four HYPE pillars are communication, commitment, passion and courage. Each HYPE Hangout incorporates these values into activities and conversations centered on living substance-free while aspiring to be the best possible version of oneself. Hancock Youth for Positive Efforts are present at each of the seven

Hancock County middle and high school campuses, and new members are always welcome. For information on how to get involved as a student or coalition member, and what it means to #believehype!, please email Cathy Pitalo at cpitalo@hancockhrc.org.

Waveland seeking participants and sponsors for Veterans Parade

ECHO STAFF

Waveland is gearing up for its annual Veterans Parade, scheduled for Nov. 8 at 2 p.m. on Coleman Avenue. Coordinator Kristen Tusa said they are inviting veterans of the Bay-Waveland and Hancock County area to ride in the parade. They are also seeking groups to participate in the parade as well as individuals or businesses who would be interested in sponsoring the event, she added. “And most of all, we want members of our community to join together in honoring these veterans by attending the parade,” Tusa said. “For many years, brave men and women have served our country, making many sacrifices to protect our freedoms, and we want to honor and celebrate these men and women for their service and sacrifices. The reason the parade is on a Sunday is that we want all youth members of our community to have an opportunity to not only participate or attend the parade but to learn civic pride. Our hope is that they will be the members of the community who will carry on this tradition.” Participant entry forms can be found at www.seacoastecho.com. The deadline for submitting the form is Friday, Nov. 1. For more information, contact Tusa at kristentusa@gmail.com or 228-209-7399. “We look forward to honoring the brave men and women of our community,” Tusa said.

Waveland man jailed for allegedly assaulting girlfriend with an axe

ECHO STAFF

Officers of the Waveland Police Department on Monday arrested a man who is accused of attacking his girlfriend with an axe.

“Waveland officers were dispatched to the 500 block of Gladstone in regards to speaking to a female victim of domestic violence incident that occurred at 916 Old Spanish Trail, Lot 2,” Chief Michael Prendergast said in a press release.

The victim “advised that her boyfriend, Nicholas Wagner, 29, became upset when she returned home from the beach,” Prendergast said. “Wagner grabbed her by the throat, dragged her into another room and poured cleaning liquid over her head and facial area. He then grabbed an axe and put it to her throat and threatened to kill her. After threatening (her), he then took the axe and cut (her) on her right side.”

The victim was able to escape the residence when a neighbor knocked on the door and Wagner opened it, Prendergast said — she “escaped out the door and ran to another neighbor’s residence.”

When police arrived on the scene, Wagner wasn’t there, Prendergast said, but they learned he might be hiding in Bay St. Louis. Bay officers then helped them locate him at the Motel 6.

Wagner was charged with Aggravated Assault — Domestic Violence, as was also booked on a charge of contempt of court for failure to appear in a court hearing.

He was transported to the Hancock County Jail, where he was still being held Thursday morning in lieu of $5,150 in bonds.

Childcare

When I was growing up, I always thought I wanted to have children. It’s the “picture-perfect” image of the “American Dream.” A spouse, a couple of kids, the dream house, etc.

But, as I grew up and educated myself about all the responsibilities that came with raising children; and as the world seemed to change for the worst, I decided against it.

I realized I had to carve out my path and make my own image, the one that best suited my life, not so-ciety’s vision.

Don’t get me wrong, I love kids, you’ve probably read my columns about my nephew, he is my whole world. I’m still in contact with many of my former students, as well.

So far, 2020 has me assured that my biological clock will no longer hassle me with its ticking and I’m quite content with being the fun aunt.

Given the school closures; the schools reopening; distance learning; mask and social distancing mandates; and then schools closing again due to quarantining; I’m relieved I don’t have children in school.

Last week, Long Beach Middle School and Hancock High School closed their doors to in-person instruction due to quarantine.

As I do, I read the dumpster fire of comments under these news posts on Facebook.

In relation to the Long Beach closures, one commentator actually referred to schools as their “child-care.”

Listen, I know parents have to work in order to support their families.

But, at the end of the day, those children and their wellbeing are under the control of their parents and/or guardians.

The state, the taxpayers, the school district, and most importantly, the teachers are not responsible for raising your child nor being its daily caregiver, in my humble and childless opinion.

Sometimes, people have told me that sad old argument that because I don’t have children, I don’t get a say. I just yawn now.

I do, however, pay taxes which contribute to other people’s children’s education, free school meals, etc. And I don’t have children in school who benefit from that.

I also don’t get that super cool dependent refund, either, when I file my taxes. More often than not, in some years, I didn’t receive a state refund, I had to pay.

In a sense, it’s like people are almost punished for not having kids.

I’m not sure why parents get tax breaks. It wasn’t

2020 has shown us why America needs journalists

Guest Column
By Randy Evans

so appropriate.

We have seen our lives and our communities change in dramatic ways because of coronavirus.

In the early weeks, businesses closed their doors and government offices were darkened in response to directives that all but the most essential workers should remain at home to guard against spreading the disease.

Newspapers scrambled to protect their employees, too. But newspapers still needed to be produced to serve their readers and communities and to fulfill that vital information function the Founding Fathers envisioned.

Journalists quickly educated themselves on the coronavirus and shared that knowledge with readers. They kept their communities informed --- telling readers where tests were available, reporting on local test results, sharing the heartbreaking news of deaths, and alerting people about employment changes at local businesses.

Journalists turned to their kitchen tables, spare bedrooms and basement offices to take the place of the newsrooms where they had gathered with colleagues a few weeks earlier. While the locations changed, the core mission of newspapers did not.

Newspapers have long served as “watch-dogs” over government. The pandemic magnified the significance of this role because the virus closed most government offices, and meetings of school boards, city councils and county officials moved onto Zoom.

Reporters have always tried to be vigilant over the way state and local governments use tax money and make decisions. But in 2020, journalists also have worked to keep up with the dynamic nature of the coronavirus testing data. They have tried to make sense of the metrics government leaders have relied upon in making decisions on mask wearing, social distancing, and back-to-school directives.

The most potent tool of newspapers continues to be the spotlight. They shine it on problems that need to be addressed and on solutions that ought to be considered. They shine it on stories that are heartwarming and uplifting. At other times, they shine it on topics that might raise the blood pressure of readers.

NASA’s Economic Impact is Comprehensive – and Life-Changing

NASA had a problem in 1961. The agency had selected a large area in Hancock County, Mississippi, to build its propulsion test site. Unfortunately, building the much-needed site would require relocating more than 600 families, some of which were not happy with the news.

On Nov. 1, 1961, NASA and other leaders gathered in one of the local Hancock County communities to meet with residents. The gathering proved pivotal as the leaders called on residents to trust that all was for the best and would work out well.

That meeting proved to be the cornerstone for an enduring and invaluable partnership between NASA’s Stennis Space Center, now the nation’s largest rocket propulsion test site, and its surrounding communities. Stennis and its related communities have grown and worked together for almost six decades, each supporting and benefiting from the other in a multitude of ways.

I thought of that history and partnership recently when NASA released its newly-commissioned Economic Impact Report 2019. The report is a highly credible look at the space agency and what it means to the nation. It was compiled by the Nathalie P. Voorhees Center for Neighborhood and Community Improvement at the University of Illinois at Chicago, widely recognized as one of the foremost organizations conducting economic impact studies for corporations, communities, and government agencies.

The economic impact of NASA outlined in the report can only be described as “comprehensive.”

According to the detailed look, all 50 American states and the District of Columbia see economic benefits from NASA and its research, development, and space exploration work. Overall, the agency generated a total economic output of more than $64 billion in the 2019 fiscal year, supported more than 312,000 jobs and totaled almost $7 billion in federal, state, and local tax revenues.

That is not all.

The agency is committed to transferring its developed technologies, products, and processes to private companies and everyday life. In the 2019 year, that meant generating 1,839 new technology reports, filing 85 new patent applications, receiving 122 patents and entering into 2,692 software usage agreements.

You see why I chose the word “comprehensive.”

Mississippi benefits greatly from NASA-related work. As the study indicates, NASA and its various missions, including the Moon to Mars initiative now underway, generated the following for the Magnolia state:

- 3,633 jobs (11th among states).
- An economic output of $570.5 million (11th among states).
- 493 jobs directly related to NASA’s Moon to Mars efforts (9th among states).

economic output of just more than $77 million (11th among states). Mississippi truly stands on the front lines of NASA’s missions, especially as Stennis tests the engines and propulsion systems for the new Space Launch System rocket that will power those Moon to Mars missions of tomorrow. For the state – and the entire nation – the economic impact is real, not to mention the importance of the agency’s scientific and technological advances and everyday improvements to life. The entire NASA agency receives less than half of 1 percent of the annual U.S. budget but uses this small taxpayer investment to produce tremendous returns. Yes, NASA has kept its word – in Mississippi and across the nation. It has carried the entire country to the Moon and to the reaches of our solar system. It has improved daily life in countless areas and ways. It has provided groundbreaking advances in science and related fields. It has inspired entire generations to learn, dream, and reach. the government’s decision to have those children. The financial burden should be on the parents and/or guardians. I worked for four years as a preschool teacher. Some of the kids were there from the time the school opened until closing time, which can be hard on the kids. More often than not, parents brought their sick children to school, even though we had policies in place. (Even before 2020, people didn’t like following rules).

And also more often than not, I along with some of my coworkers, would catch whatever virus or stomach bug the children had. I know it’s hard to miss work to take care of a sick child. But, when the teachers also get sick, who’s going to be there to teach the children? That also means that teachers will miss a day of work, as well, because teachers had to stay home if they ran a fever or had a stomach bug so as not to infect others. I understand, it’s hard raising children. It’s time consuming, expensive, etc., but it is also very rewarding. However, teachers are there to educate children, not babysit or raise them when parents have to go to work. Where is the personal accountability anymore? I know it’s difficult to find someone trustworthy to watch children and childcare is expensive. My sister has a difficult time since she lives away from family and friends, who she would prefer take care of my nephew when she needs it. But, people assume the responsibility of providing adequate care when they decide to have a child. I think that composing a plan about how to balance the work life with the family life should be an essential part of family planning because there are going to be times when schools and daycares are closed. Schools were closed for months around here after Hurricane Katrina. At least now, the districts can offer distance learning so that students can still learn off campus. When it comes to school districts, I think parents should be more concerned with the kind of education their children are receiving, not the quality of daycare services. There has been a long tradition of newspapers advocating for the public’s access to government meetings and records so citizens know what their government is doing, or not doing. This is hugely important now and long term, because government should conduct its business --- really, it’s the public’s business --- in open, not in secret, so citizens have the opportunity to share their views on forthcoming decisions. The important work of newspapers stretches far beyond government buildings, however. Newspapers are there to introduce readers to interesting people. They tell their communities about events that are coming up. They provide the stuff that finds its way into families’ scrapbooks and onto the doors of refrigerators --- news items about awards received, honors bestowed, touchdowns scored, prizewinning pigs shown at local fairs, and on and on. And in times of great distress --- during killer hurricanes and tornadoes, horrendous floods and wildfires --- newspapers step up in ways that truly can make the difference between life and death. Newspapers have done that this year, once again being the go-to source for vital details the public needs --- the lists of places where people can charge their cellphones, laptops and medical equipment, the locations of shelters and meal distribution sites, and places where people can get drinking water or provide a helping hand to those in need. The immense challenges we all have dealt with this year clearly underscore the fact that America needs journalists. Randy Evans is executive director of the Iowa Freedom of Information Council. He was a newspaper reporter and editor in Iowa for 42 years.

Burial with Military Honors for George H. Dangleman, Jr., age 97 of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi were held on Tuesday, October 6, 2020 at Magnolia Cemetery in Lucedale, Mississippi.

George was born in 1923 in Narragansett, Rhode Island. He attended school in Providence and spent memorable summers in Point Judith.

In 1942, George joined the Navy in Boston, Massachusetts to become a fighter pilot at age 19. He was one of the first three to graduate in 18 months and was commissioned as a United States Naval Aviator, initially stationed in Pensacola Naval Air Station. George served as a fighter pilot during WWII, the Korean War and Cuban Missile Crisis. In his words, he got paid to play while flying Corsairs as well as the Grumman Wildcat, Hellcat, Bearcat and Hornet. He flew off the aircraft carriers USS Lexington, USS Midway, USS Boxer and Tarawa. He and his air group received a Presidential Unit Ci-

Church in Bay St. Louis, where he was a trustee, head usher and greeter until his retirement at age 90.

Pearl River, William Carey create new pathways to success

SEA COAST ECHO

Pearl River Community College and William Carey University have created new pathways to success for Hancock County students through the signing of two memorandums of agreement Friday.

As part of the first agreement with William Carey University, Carey will provide education classes for third and fourth-year students at Pearl River’s Hancock County Center.

“We work on a daily basis to provide educational opportunities to those we serve,” PRCC President Dr. Adam Breerwood said. “This is a great opportunity for students from Hancock County and just an opportunity to address a problem that has been taking place in the state for many years. The teacher shortage is real and we are excited to be partnering with an outstanding university like William Carey and offering the foundation we can provide to help shore up this issue for our surrounding communities.”

Those participating in the program would remain at PRCC’s campus after completion of their associates degree and finish their bachelor’s degree as WCU students. These students also have the added benefit of receiving a near 50 percent reduction in tuition price.

“We are proud to have this partnership,” WCU Executive Vice President Dean of Education Dr. Ben Burnett said. “It certainly broadens our base of students that we can reach. Our undergraduate teacher education program at William Carey has grown tremendously; 100 percent in the last two years. We want to continue to educate as many people as we can in teacher education in part because our schools need a large number of teachers to replace those that are retiring. This gives us one more opportunity to do that.”

Students who complete the program also agree to teach in the Hancock County school system for a minimum of three years.

“This can be such a powerful partnership for everyone,” Superintendent of Hancock County Schools and PRCC board member Allen Dedeaux said. “For our students to get this opportunity to continue their education at an affordable price is going to be a game changer. Hopefully we can continue to get great teachers from a program that put it out there for students to take advantage of. We have a lot of students with other responsibilities and jobs and with the flexibility embedded in this program, I think that’s going to be a benefit to all.”

The two institutions previously made this same agreement for Pearl River’s Poplarville campus in 2018 and now have a successful first class of graduates teaching in Pearl River County school districts.

William Carey is already beginning the process of advising students currently attending Pearl River with the program officially anticipated to start at the PRCC Hancock Center in the fall of 2021.

The second memorandum outlines pathways for PRCC academic and technical students to continue their education beyond Pearl River. Technical students interested in continuing their education beyond their Associate in Applied Science will be able to apply some if not all of their technical and academic credits toward a Bachelor’s degree at WCU. Students can take advantage of this transfer option immediately.

Burnett has seen the effects of this transfer option firsthand as his son graduated from both Pearl River’s Unmanned Aerial Program and William Carey with a bachelor’s degree in math and business.

“It just gives people more options,” Burnett said. “The days are gone of someone graduating with one degree and staying in that job all their life. People don’t just change jobs, they change careers.”

This draws on the strengths of both institutions; to provide more opportunities in technical education and meet current and future workforce demands.

Breerwood understands the importance of making students aware of these transfer opportunities and how that can affect their future and the future of others.

LIVING BY THE NUMBERS

By GARY ANDREWS

During my lifetime I have seen many major changes in this world. Some have been good, some not so good. We have gone from a place of people dealing with people to people being judged by and recognized by numbers. Several years ago I could walk into my bank to seek a loan and I was judged on my character, reputation, and credit worthiness of that bank. I dealt with people that knew me and were my friends.

Today it is so much different and difficult to obtain a loan because the same people that know me and continue to be my friends are dictated by corporate structures that want to know my credit worthiness given, through a number, from a credit bureau. Character and reputation doesn't seem to matter anymore.

I don't blame the local bank or my friends for this; it is just the way our world has turned. You make one mistake and it could cost you for a long time.

During our lifetime all of us are going to have a social security number. During my years in the United States Air Force I had an ID number. During my college days I was referred to by my ID number. It seems everything about you is controlled by a number and even though this is a much needed system in the world today for organization, people can lose their identity, credit worthiness, social standing, and can be completely ruined because someone that has hacked into the system and stolen their numbers. We have no idea who has the opportunity of seeing how we live and control our lives due to these numbers and in the wrong hands our lives can be totally destroyed by the wrong people getting their eyes and hands on our identification numbers.

We are living in the time of numbers, however there will come a time when the number 666 is issued and none of us really want to be here when this number is being issued. Throughout the Bible we are warned about the beasts (antichrist and the Antichrist). In Daniel 7:1-8, 17-

27, we are told about the beasts and their idolatrous kingdoms. In 1 John 2:18, 2 John 1:7, several antichrists are mentioned and we need to be aware that we are in the last days before Jesus comes and takes His people home. Anyone left after the rapture will be in the 1000 year reign of the Antichrist and will be forced to have the number 666 either on the right hand or their forehead. The Antichrist has been called the "man of lawlessness" or sin and is mentioned by the Apostle Paul in 2 Thessalonians 2:1-11. Revelation 13:11-18 tells us what the end times will be like and I pray that none of us will be around to see it. We are definitely in a world of numbers but we do not want any part of the number 666 because then eternity with Jesus is gone.

Prayer: Lord, thank you for the earth we live on today and for the laws we have to live by. I pray Lord that all of our leaders will turn to you for guidance and direction and listen to what you say. Amen.

MEET CHOPPER.
This boy is one stunningly handsome fella! His tiger like coat is even more vibrant in person, and so is his personality This 2 year old Mountain Cur/Dutch Shepherd mix is best described as energetic, playful, affectionate, and lacking in manners and social graces! Lol! He is very strong and hunky, but with no impulse control Yep, he jumps, pulls on the leash, disregards personal space, and has obviously never heard the words "no," "sit," or "down!" You get the picture...a "wild child" with no basic training. Some lucky family has their work cut out for them, but the effort will be well worth it! Why, you ask? Because at heart, Chopper is an awesome dog with a big love for people! He wants to learn and is eager to please; he just hasn't had anyone willing to take the time to train him. He is very treat and praise motivated, so these qualities will be in your favor. His training should always be positive; never harsh or negative. (A professional trainer would be ideal. He is very smart and would be a great student.) Chopper would be a fun loving best buddy for an active single person or couple, or he could join a family with middle school aged children or older. A home with a fenced backyard is a must, as he loves to run and play outdoors with both his doggie and human friends at the shelter. Chopper is a terrific dog, and we are seeking an equally terrific family for him. If you are interested in giving him the life he deserves, please call our front desk at 228-466-4516 to schedule a meet-n-greet. Please bring your family dog(s) to the visit to ensure compatibility.

BAY HIGH HOLDS OFF PASS HIGH IN SCORING FEST

BY MAURICE SINGLETON
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Hosea Singleton deflected Pass High’s two point conversion pass attempt out of bounds with 25 seconds remaining on the game clock to secure a 45-43 win for the Bay High Tigers to open district play in Bay St. Louis on Friday night.

The Tigers played from behind all of the first half, but it was clear that this group of resilient Tigers were up for the challenge as they rallied in the last minute and twelve seconds of the first half, converting a 39-yard drive to put them within three points of the Pirates at 24-21.

The Tigers’ offense took to the field first and they opened the game with two incomplete passes and eventually had to punt the ball. On their next possession, they were again forced to punt after failing to pick up a first down. But, the Pirates’ offense never took to the field as Lawrence Peterson recovered Pass High’s mishandling of the punt, and the Tigers’ offense got going after that.

The Tigers mounted a 59-yard drive as Carmello Simpson capped the drive with a 7-yard carry for the Tigers’ first score of the night to tie the game at 7-7.

But the drive exposed some opportunities for the Tigers as they took the game to the ground from there with a thunder and lightning attack that would produce more than 300 yards on the night from its two leading rushers.

Noah Cutter pounded and punished Pirates’ defenders with 163 rushing yards on the night and three touchdowns, and Simpson bolted his way for 150 yards on 14 carries and three touchdowns.

“This was a huge win for our program,” said Tigers coach Jeremy Turcotte. “We got away from our game plan, and we just ran the ball. Noah Cutter and Carmello Simpson and the offensive line were outstanding tonight.”

Simpson scored again with just under seven minutes before halftime with a 15-yard carry to tie the game at 14-14. But Pass High would score twice before halftime, first with a 33-yard field goal with 3:34 on the second quarter clock, then on a 30-yard pass from Kam White to Terry Patton, Jr.

Trevor Bordelon tied the game at 24-24, kicking a 22-yard field on the Tigers first possession of the second half, and from that point the rival teams were as balanced and even as two teams could be as they both scored two touchdowns the rest of the way.

The Tigers got their first lead of the night on their next possession on a 20-yard Simpson carry. The Pirates responded with a 20-yard keeper by White which resulted in a 31-31 tie.

Cutter regained the lead for the Tigers two possessions later on a 19-yard scoring run as the Tigers faced fourth down with one yard needed for a first down.

On the third snap of their ensuing possession, White outran Tigers’ defenders for a 25-yard scoring run. But, the Pirates failed to get the point-after-kick off, and the Pirates trailed 38-37.

Simpson returned the ensuing kickoff 23 yards, and from there the Tigers put together a 69-yard, 10-play drive, featuring the punishing running of Cutter, who carried on nine of those snaps, including runs of 27 and 22 yards before carrying two yards for the score and a 45-37 lead.

Carmello Simpson with the touchdown.

The Pirates would have two minutes and nineteen seconds left to score, and they capitalized, overcoming a loss of yardage on a bad snap and converting on a fourth down with nine yards to go for a first down.

White again connected with Patton for a 24-yard score with 25 seconds left in the game.

“White and Patton are special for the Pass,” said Turcotte. “They gave us fits tonight, and they’re going to give a lot of people fits. Hats off to Coach Carmody.

“They gave us a little something different than we expected. We had to make an adjustment and play a different ball game than we planned on. We want to be able to run it and we want to be able to throw it, and tonight we said tonight, let’s just run it.”

The Tigers (3-1, 1-0) travel across town to play St. Stanislaus (3-2, 0-1) next Friday. Pass High (2-3, 0-1) hosts South Jones (1-2, 1-0).

Tigers blank Rocks 26-0

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The Saint Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (3-2, 0-1) traveled to Moss Point last Friday evening to open division play against the Tigers. The ride home from Dantzler Stadium was not a happy one after the Tigers (3-2, 1-0) blanked the Rocks 26-0. It was the first time SSC was shutout since a 30-0 loss to Oak Grove on September 5, 2003. And, the loss brought the series record to 15-10-1, still in favor of SSC.

The Rocks were without the service of their top two quarterbacks who are out with injuries.

Will Dreher stepped into the mix against a talented defensive front that harassed him all night long.

Dreher was sacked six times as the Tiger defense limited the Rocks to just three yards of total offense.

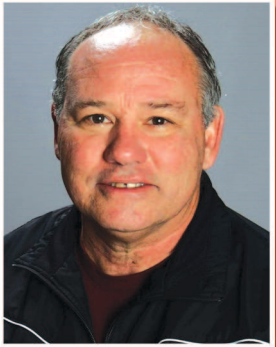

The Rocks were led by Chandler Chapman on offense with 41 yards on 11 carries.

On defense, the Rocks were paced by Ryan Tyler with 12 tackles including seven solos and a fumble recovery. Blake Bilich added 11 tackles with six solos, a forced fumble, fumble recovery and quarterback hurry.

SSC head coach Nate Encrpera stated, “Moss Point has a very well coached team. Offensively, they put you in situations that are complex and on defense they pursue the ball aggressively. Now, we have to get ready for Bay High. There is not much else to say about them. The kids all know each other and have grown up together. We have to get better this week and be ready for a battle from Bay High.”

The Rocks and the Tigers will meet ‘between the walls’ on Friday at 7 p.m. The two teams have met 51 times since 1945 with SSC leading the series 32-19. The last time Bay High beat SSC was October 5, 2012, when Bay High won 44-7. The Rocks won last year’s game 42-35. See you at the game!

SAINT STANISLAUS

The Saint Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (3-2, 0-1) were shutout 26-0 by Moss Point last Friday night. It was the first shutout loss for SSC since a 30-0 loss to Oak Grove on September 5, 2003. The Rocks managed only three yards of total offense against a stingy Moss Point defense that sacked Will Dreher six times in the game.

Dreher drew the start due to injuries to Gage Peterson and Alex Fabra. Chandler Chapman led SSC with 11 carries for 41 yards. On defense, Ryan Tyler led the charge with 12 tackles including seven solos and a fumble recovery. Blake Bilich added 11 tackles with six solos, a forced fumble, fumble recovery and a hurry. The loss dropped the series record to 15-10-1 still in favor of SSC.

This week the Rocks host the Bay High Tigers ‘between the walls’ at the Brother Philip Memorial Athletic Complex. It will be the 52nd time the two teams have met on the gridiron since 1945 with SSC leading the series 32-19. Last year, SSC won a shootout 42-35. The Tigers have not beaten SSC since a 44-7 decision on October 5, 2020.

Second Saturday

CRUISIN' THROUGH DOWNTOWN

BY CAITLIN BOURGEOIS

As of press time Tuesday, the Second Saturday Artwalk in Old Town Bay St. Louis was still on schedule for this Saturday, Oct. 10, from 4-8 p.m., in conjunction with the 24th annual Cruisin' the Coast celebration.

However, city officials said, that's subject to change, depending on the path and ferocity of Hurricane Delta, which was still down near the Yucatan peninsula on Tuesday afternoon.

The Second Saturday Artwalk has grown over the years to become a monthly tourism draw for the entire region, and the draw grows exponentially during Cruisin' the Coast.

In light of COVID-19, please be mindful of social distancing and sanitation. Bring a mask this Second Saturday. Some establishments require them.

Old Town stays lively all day, with many merchants and restaurants offering specials. The pace picks up from 4 - 8pm, when gallery openings and live music keep the streets humming with activity.

You'll find cool deals, fresh meals, and lots of art and live music.

This month's Second Saturday "Hot Spot" is Gallery 220, located at 220 Main Street in Old Town.

GALLERY 220

Artists are resilient. That is the aura that Gallery 220 radiates when you stand in front of the colorful, ornate building on Main Street. It's a wonder how during the most anxiety-riddled time of many people's lives, the artists inside Gallery 220 continue forward with their work. They chat, create and offer a different normality to those who step inside to escape for a moment.

Gallery 220 has been a stronghold of the Old Town Bay Saint Louis community since 2005 - many of the artists have been in the area for much longer than that. Showcasing that resilience in the midst of turmoil once again, Gallery 220 came back in a strong community sense after Hurricane Katrina by reviving Second Saturday Art Walk. This gave the town a new sense of hope and community, something that was desperately needed at the time.

Now, they're still putting their best foot forward. Renowned watercolor artist, Herb Willey, is the featured artist of the month - and his pieces show a different view of Americana. Dutifully named "The Quarantine Series," Herb's pieces show not necessarily the effects of the quarantine itself, but the life that was able to be lived because of it.

Herb was a commercial illustrator for companies such as Oreck for years. When he came to Gallery 220, owner Jenise McCardle did not give it a second thought. "He just showed up and wanted to show and I was like, 'Yeah!'" said Jenise.

Come by Gallery 220 for October's Second Saturday to see Herb's beautiful paintings and the rest of the exhibits inside this amazing shop. There is a new artist featured monthly so it's worth paying a visit as often as you can to be amazed at the relentlessness of the artists this gallery houses.

Mark Currier's band, Jessie & Friends, will be playing live at Gallery 220. Enjoy the ambience from Cruisin' the Coast all the way down Main Street. Be sure to snap a picture against the Coca-Cola mural!

THE QUARANTINE SERIES

"As a full time stay-at-home artist, I have not been affected greatly by the shelter-in-place orders as many people have been," Willey said. "Of course I am speaking only about the problems of movement and adjusting to the changes in daily habits.

"The threat of contracting the virus came at a time that added to other things going on in my life at the same period. I had major dental surgery and moved my residence during the same week and suddenly I had to be aware of this additional problem that added to my anxiety. My concentration shifted from creative work to more physical and mechanical efforts. I went from painting almost daily to not painting at all for a few weeks."

Willey said that the pandemic created the need for him to adjust his way of life.

"I was looking forward to my work appearing in the Louisiana Watercolor International Show in New Orleans in May and suddenly it had no importance at all," he said. "I had put aside many projects and orders for prints that were so important and now forgotten. Even though I have been through many life threatening episodes in my life, the anxiety of this event stays with you daily and of course the length of time that it has lingered with us and affected our daily life is the unusual aspect that requires a new kind of attitude and adjustment.

"I regained my ability to concentrate once again on painting and produced about 35 pieces over the the first 65 days of quarantine and the desire to create overcame my worry about what surprises the new day brings. I think many artists are experiencing this anxiety and my personal feeling is it's probably better just to let it rule you for a period of time and not force yourself. The inherent drive to create will rule out at some point and you may well appreciate the interruption afterwards."

The group of paintings Willey created during quarantine represented the changes in his own life, he said, not necessarily its effects on others.

"There are enough photographs of people in masks," he said. "I wasn't interested in concentrating on that type of subject. I wanted to show what I was seeing daily, especially on the beaches and surroundings where people were still able to enjoy our coastal life in spite of the 'shelter in place' mentality."

All of the paintings in Willey's "Quarantine Series" are transparent watercolor and will be on view at Gallery 220 at 220 Main St., Bay St Louis, Ms. from Friday, Oct. 9, 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Second Saturday from 9-7, Sunday 12-4, and Monday-Wednesday 9-5.

Funded by Hancock Whitney and administered by the Gulf Coast Community Foundation (GCCF), the Seal grants recognize up to 10 outstanding teachers with individual one-time $2,000 grants to activate creative teaching proposals enhancing students’ learning experiences. Certified teachers at public and private schools in the eight Mississippi counties with Hancock Whitney locations—Forrest, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Jefferson Davis, Lamar, Madison, and Pearl River—are eligible to apply.

To apply, teachers must complete online letters of intent which detail how their proposed projects provide innovative approaches to helping students learn and support state requirements. GCCF will review applications and invite selected teachers to submit full grant proposals in early December.

GCCF also coordinates selection of grant winners by an independent committee of business, community, and educational representatives not affiliated with Hancock Whitney.

Hancock Whitney established the Seal grant program in 1994 as a permanent endowment of the GCCF Pat Santucci Friends of Public Education program. First presented in 1996, the awards pay tribute to the community commitment and leadership of Leo W. Seal, Sr., the bank’s president from 1932 until his death in 1963, and his son, the late Leo W. Seal, Jr., the bank’s chief executive for 45 years. Throughout their lives, both men championed countless economic and educational opportunities across the Gulf Coast.

County School District said in a press release issued Wednesday afternoon. “As of today, 222 students are quarantined, which is 17 percent of the student body.”

High school students will resume distance learning and personnel will continue to be at the school and will be available by phone, email, and Google classroom. Students should expect to return to campus on Oct. 14.

“In the meantime, high school students will be working in Google classroom to engage with their teachers in instruction and activities so that learning continues,” the post states. “Set aside time each day for your student to work on assignments and activities and encourage communication with teachers. If your high school student does not have access to Google classroom, you or your student should contact your student’s counselor to make other arrangements. For students to be counted present, they must complete their daily work.”

Drive-through lunches will still be available at any elementary school in the district, the post states.

“Parents, it is imperative that you help us and your community to limit the spread of COVID-19,” the post states. “Please practice social distancing, wear masks, and keep your child from gathering in groups outside of the family unit. Working together is the only way to bring us back to campus as soon as possible.”

All other schools in the district will remain open and continue on their normal schedule.

The statewide mask mandate ended at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 30. However, Reeves said Wednesday that he encourages residents to continue wearing face coverings while in public places.

The new order took effect at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 30 and will remain in effect until Wednesday, Nov. 11, unless rescinded, modified, or extended, the release states.

According to the new order, “All persons with the state of Mississippi are strongly encouraged to follow the CDC’s and Mississippi Department of Health’s guidelines to prevent the spread of COVID-19, including:

- Wearing a face covering, covering the nose and mouth, while in public spaces whenever it is not possible to maintain a minimum of six feet of social distancing from persons not in the same household.
- Avoid large gatherings, particularly indoor gatherings.

Maintain social distancing (at least six feet) between persons not in your household.

Practice good hand hygiene, including washing your hands often with soap and water for at least 20 seconds especially after you have been in a public space.

Stay at home if you feel sick or have any symptoms of COVID-19.”

Under the new order, Reeves also eased some of the social distancing

Tenorio then met with plaintiff and other custodians to discuss the issues with Schwartz, the complaint states.

“Tenorio said that Schwartz was just joking around,” the complaint states. “And people could not take his jokes,” to which the plaintiff objected and said that they were “not jokes” and “extremely offensive.”

“Plaintiff and other employees later found out that other employees had made previous complaints to defendants about harassing, offensive, and discriminatory behavior by Schwartz, and nothing had been done to Schwartz for this behavior,” the complaint states.

The complaint states that Flores-Martinez was terminated on or about April 23, 2019 and was told “she was being let go for missing a day of work. Plaintiff’s absence has been pre-approved by Tenorio.”

The complaint alleges that her termination was “further harassment and in retaliation for her complaints.”

“Upon information and belief, Schwartz had a pattern and practice of harassing employees, including sexual and racial harassment and previous complaints had been made about his behavior,” the complaint states. “However, no corrective action was taken and the conduct continued.”

Flores-Martinez is seeking a declaratory judgement as well as compensatory, punitive, and/or nominal damages, back pay (plus interest), reinstatement and/or front pay, the complaint states, as well as attorneys’ fees and expenses.

The second complaint was filed by former employee Quantrome Ray, an African-American male and resident of Pascagoula.

According to the complaint, he was employed by the BWSD from February 2019 until April 23, 2019.

On June 24, Ray filed a charge of employment discrimination with the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission and received a right-to-sue notice, the complaint states.

Ray was assigned to work at Bay Middle School as a custodial employee by Kelly Services.

“After plaintiff’s employment began, onsite supervisor Charles Schwartz (white male) began to harass plaintiff and other employees,” the complaint states. “Schwartz asked plaintiff if he wanted to hear a ‘black joke.’ Plaintiff told him ‘no,’ however, Schwartz went ahead and told him the joke anyway, which had a punch line of ‘N*, N*, N*.’ Schwartz repeatedly referred to plaintiff as ‘colored’ and ‘boy.’ Plaintiff told Schwartz to refer to him by his name, however, he continuously called plaintiff ‘colored’ and ‘boy.’”

The complaint states that plaintiff and other employees took their complaints to BWMS principal Jennifer Seymour in April 2019, the complaint states, ed will be sent to the victims of Hurricane Laura.

Donations and items may be dropped off at Bay Books, Bay High School, the Law Office of Elise Epperson Deano located at 10199 Highway 603, and Saint Stanislaus.

“A few of the relaxed restrictions include increasing attendance at outdoor K-12 extracurricular events such as football games to 50 percent of seating capacity, limiting group gatherings when you are unable to social distance to no more than 20 indoors and 100 outdoors, and requiring masks for schools and close contact businesses like salons and barbershops,” the release states.

and employees were told by school officials to not contact Kelly Services.

Ray and his co-workers complained about Schwartz’s “harassing behavior, detailing the racial, sexual, and national comments origin and behavior,” the complaint alleges.

Ray and his co-workers provided written statements and also met with Tenorio, who informed plaintiff to not report the complaints to Kelly Services, the complaint states.

“Tenorio said that Schwartz was ‘not a bad guy,’ and that he ‘was only joking,’” the complaint states. “Tenorio also made a reference that plaintiff and his co-workers did ‘not know how to take a joke.’”

The complaint alleges that another employee also complained that the things Schwartz said were “offensive and discriminatory.”

According to the complaint, Ray’s wife was schedule for knee surgery and he “received approval from Tenorio to be off the day of the surgery so that he could drive her home following surgery.”

The complaint alleges that co-workers witnessed Tenorio approve the time off, which was April 23. It further states that the day off was marked on the work calendar and approved.

“Plaintiff was called the same day from Kelly Services and told that Tenorio was terminating his employment,” the complaint states. “Plaintiff told Kelly Services that he had taken the day off and it had been previously approved by Tenorio and that his termination was in retaliation for his complaints. Plaintiff also told Kelly Services of the harassing behavior by Schwartz, of the complaint of harassment, and that he was told Seymour and the district would handle it. However, no corrective action was taken, and plaintiff was terminated. Plaintiff’s termination was further harassment and in retaliation for his complaints. Plaintiff never heard back from defendant regarding the harassment, his termination, and his complaints. Further, defendant failed to take corrective or remedial action.”

Ray is seeking a declaratory judgement, a permanent injunction enjoining defendants, defendants’ agents, successors, employees, attorneys, and those action in concert with defendants and on defendants’ behalf from continuing to violate Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the complaint states. He is also seeking compensatory, punitive, and/or nominal damages, back-pay (plus interest), reinstatement, and/or front pay, attorneys’ fee and expenses.

BWSD attorney Ronnie Artigues on Tuesday said that the district has not been served any litigation at this time and will be unable to comment on pending litigation.

Artigues added that district is aware of the EEOC complaint.

Ersan Yurttas was charged with second degree arson and felony shoplifting, according to court records; Monica was charged with being an accessory before the fact and petit larceny; and Eric Yurttas was charged with arson, shoplifting, and petit larceny.

24TH ANNUAL

'AMERICA'S LARGEST BLOCK PARTY' IS HERE!

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Although the 24th annual Cruisin' the Coast doesn't officially begin in Hancock County until today, Wednesday, the Cruisers have already been burning up Hancock's highways.

"Somebody made a comment to me today that Old Town Bay St. Louis last night looked like Cruisin' was already happening here, which is a really good thing," Hancock Tourism Director Myrna Green said Sunday.

That's great news for local merchants, officials said, who have seen lower-than-usual business for the past few months because of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Although the virus has thinned out the crowds a little this year, there are still more than 6,500 classic vehicles registered for this year's Cruisin' the Coast.

Green said that roughly one-third of the Cruisin' visitors each year are not even registered -- they're just here to see the cars.

BLESSING OF THE CLASSICS

At 3 p.m., they will drive their rides around a scenic route on Diamondhead Drive East and Lanai Drive where they will have their classic cars blessed by priests and pastors from different denominations.

Each participating car owner will receive a Blessing of the Classics sports bottle (while supplies last) and a commemorative certificate.

Last year's Blessing of the Classics was the biggest yet, Duffy said: "The cars just kept coming and coming. It seems to be getting bigger every year."

The event will culminate at the area around Diamondhead City Hall with live rock & roll music by Lauren Munsch and Short Circuit.

Residents and visitors are invited to come out to view the classics and get in on all the fun.

Cruisin’ the Coast

SCHEDULE MAY CHANGE, DEPENDING ON PATH OF HURRICANE DELTA

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

The 24th annual Cruisin’ the Coast was still on schedule as of press time Tuesday despite the uncertainty about Hurricane Delta, but local emergency officials said anything could still change.

Delta was swirling near the Yucatan peninsula on Tuesday afternoon and on-track to make landfall either in Louisiana or the Mississippi Gulf Coast late Friday or early Saturday morning as either a Category 3 or Category 4 hurricane.

The cone of uncertainty for the storm indicates it could make landfall anywhere between Beaumont, Texas and Pensacola, Fla. As of 2 p.m. Tuesday, Hurricane Watch advisories were expected to be issued in Louisiana and Mississippi both.

“Over the next few days, Delta is expected to produce 2 to 4 inches of rain, with isolated higher amounts, across portions of the Cayman Islands and western Cuba,” according to the National Hurricane Center’s 2 p.m. update on Tuesday. “This rainfall may result in areas of flash flooding and mudslides.

“Later this week, Delta is expected to bring heavy rainfall and flash and urban flooding to portions of the central Gulf Coast, Tennessee Valley, and southeastern United States.”

“Right now, everything seems to still be on its regular schedule for Cruisin’ the Coast,” Hancock County Tourism Director Myrna Green said Tuesday afternoon. “I guess (organizers) will keep an eye on the weather” and make whatever changes they determine need to be made when the time comes, she said.

“I’m just hopeful that everything works out with the weather,” Bay Life Gifts owner Janice Guido said Tuesday. Guido’s shop is inside the historic Century Hall building on South Second Street in Old Town Bay St. Louis.

“We had stocked up my store and Century Hall with lots of wonderful items for all the Cruisin’ visitors,” Guido said. “We’re still looking to welcome them all with 16 shops under one roof.”

Guido said Cruisin’ the Coast is a major part of every Bay St. Louis shop owner’s life.

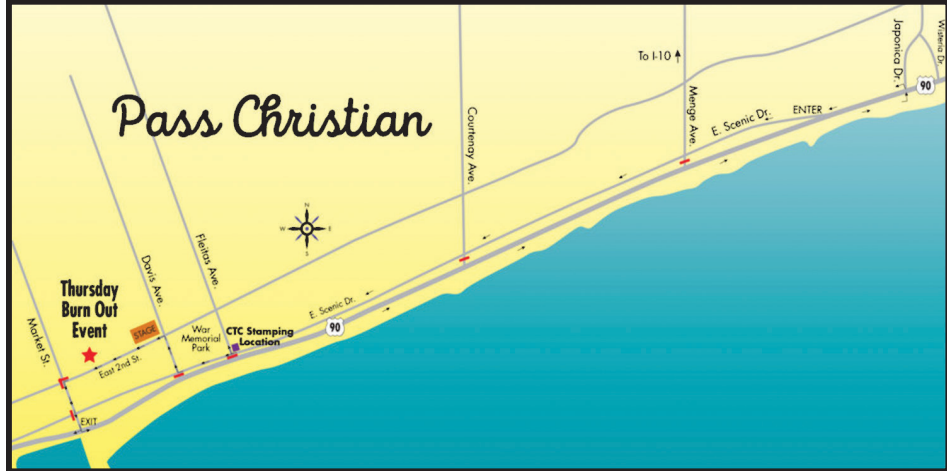

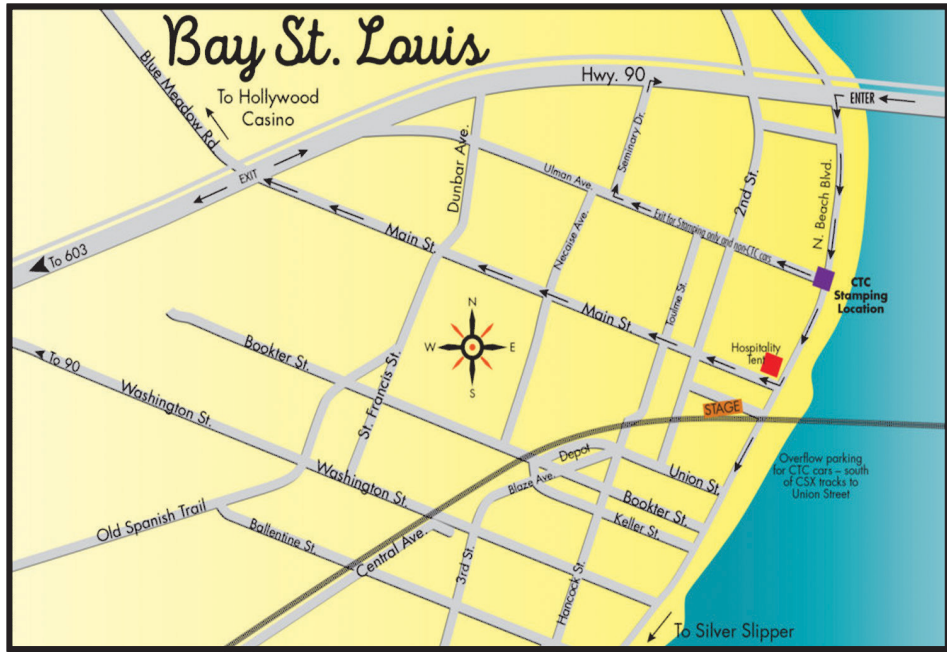

In 2017, Hurricane Nate threatened the Mississippi Gulf Coast toward the end of the week, forcing the Cruisin’ the Coast organizers to shut everything down early. Old Town merchants were devastated by the shut-down, both emotionally and financially.

“This is an important event,” Guido said. “Cruisin’ is a very important event to all the retailers of Bay St. Louis and the area. We thank the Cruises for coming each year to visit with us all.”

Despite the possibility of unpleasant weather, however, Guido said she’s still seeing plenty of visitors from out-of-state.

“I was in Gulfport at (Cruisin’) registration yesterday and admiring the cars that were there,” Guido said. “There was a lovely older couple who drove up in the most beautiful classic Impala.

“They said they drove all the way in from Detroit. People are still coming in, and we can’t wait to see them.”

CITY OF DIAMONDHEAD TO HOST 8TH ANNUAL Blessing of the Classics

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

The city of Diamondhead will kick off 2020 Cruisin' the Coast festivities in Hancock County with the eighth annual Blessing of the Classics today, Wednesday, Oct. 7.

Since the original blessing's organizers Mark Duffy, Hank Holcomb and Wayne Cooper started the event in 2013, it has grown exponentially. It has become a family tradition not only for Diamondhead residents, who have "tailgate" parties out on their lawns as the classic cars roll by, but also for the Cruisers themselves, who return year after year.

"The cars just kept coming and coming," Duffy — still the chairman of the annual event — said. "You'd have thought we were handing out hundred-dollar bills or something."

Duffy said registered vehicles are invited to the staging area on the south side of Diamondhead beginning at noon.

This year's event will stage at Diamond-head City Hall and the surrounding area, rather than at the Rouse's parking lot as in previous years.

They will be instructed by many of the 100-plus resident volunteers working the event as to where and how to park in preparation for the start time.

At 3 p.m., classic car owners will drive their rides around a scenic route on Diamondhead Drive East and Lanai Drive, where they will have their classic cars blessed by priests and pastors from different denominations.

Each participating car owner will receive an official Blessing of the Classics sports bottle (while supplies last) and a commemorative certificate.

The event will culminate at the Diamondhead City Hall area with live rock & roll music by Lauren Munsch and Short Circuit.

"The city of Diamondhead really steps up to do their level best every year to make this a very interesting and well-attended event," Duffy said.

Mopar Day in Da Bay is scheduled to take place this Thursday at the Bay St. Louis Depot District.

MOPAR DAY IN Da Bay

BRINGS FOOD & MUSIC TO HISTORIC DEPOT

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Despite Hurricane Delta's rumblings in the Gulf of Mexico, the 10th annual Mopar Day in Da Bay was still scheduled to take place this Thursday at the historic Bay St. Louis Depot during the Cruisin' the Coast celebration.

"According to the latest forecast, the rain bands aren't really supposed to start coming in until Thursday night," Lonnie Falgout, executive director of the Alice Moseley Folk Art Museum, said Tuesday. "We might have to shorten it a little, but as far as I know, we're still on track."

This year marks the 10th anniversary for the annual Mopar celebration, which runs separate from, but in conjunction with, Cruisin' the Coast.

Mopar is the parts, service and customer care division of American automobile manufacturer Chrysler. The company first used the term in the 1920s, but muscle car enthusiasts use it to "brand" the company's Dodge and Plymouth vehicles from the late 1960s and early 1970s, such as the Dodge Charger and Challenger, and the Plymouth Barracuda and Roadrunner.

The event is hosted each year by Mopars on the Coast and the Big Easy Mopar Association. The event Thursday was scheduled from 10 a.m. until 8:30 p.m., with free food, give-aways and live music by Joni Compretta & Baytown Groove, the Dave Mayley Band and American Idol 2020 finalist Faith Bechel.

"The event was previously held in Long Beach for the past nine years," Falgout said. "They were looking for a new venue. They approached me at the Alice Moseley Museum (inside the Depot building), and I gave them a tour of the novel Depot District, the Live oaks an everything that goes with it. They fell in love with the location and gave us an agreement to come here for the next five years."

Falgout said he and Hancock County Tourism Director Myrna Green "reached out to Hollywood Casino, which gave us an allotment of 145 rooms, and we're happy to say that all 145 rooms have been filled. They gave the Mopar visitors special rates to attract them to Bay St. Louis and Hancock County, and all of these people will be coming here and spending money locally, in the Bay and in Hancock County, at shops, restaurants, gas stations, you name it."

"Mopar's tradition has always been to feed their fellow cruisers," Falgout said, and we'll continue that tradition. This year, in conjunction with the Alice Moseley Museum, the Mopar clubs, Hollywood Casino and Champion Dodge, we've expanded to through contributions that we are going to honor and feed all first-responders, doctors, nurses and ambulance personnel in Hancock County."

Falgout said that, due to Hurricane Delta, the food schedule will probably be restricted to just breakfast and lunch.

Several art vendors will also participate, Falgout said, to sell local wares and to "give 'em a taste of Bay St. Louis."

There will be reserved parking all day for Mopar, with free food and door prizes.

Joni Compretta & Baytown Groove were initially scheduled to perform from 5:45-6:45 p.m., but with the pending storm, the concert will probably start closer to noon, Falgout said.

CRUISIN' & CLASSICS ARE A WAY OF LIFE IN BSL

BY GEOFF BELCHER
GENERAL MANAGER

Although Cruisin' the Coast occurs but once a year, classic cars and community spirit are year-long passions for many folks in Hancock County.

Two weeks before the 2020 Cruisin' celebration hit the Coast, brothers Elvis and Donnie Atwood were making the rounds at the Arby's cruise-in they organize each month to bring car enthusiasts from all across the region together to celebrate classic cars and raise money and awareness for worthy causes.

Elvis — in his full "King" regalia — shared the spotlight at this cruise-in with Albert Hollie Sr.'s "General Lee," a classic 1969 Dodge Charger and replica of the famed vehicle from "The Dukes of Hazzard" television show. Elvis posed with car owners Albert Hollie Sr. and Trish Blackwell, as well as dozens of other admirers.

He was already chomping at the bit for Cruisin' the Coast, though: "I can't wait," Elvis said.

Hancock County's premiere classic car club, the Misfits Street Krewzers, is active all year long. The group hosts monthly cruise-ins and an annual car show, raising funds and awareness for multiple local organizations.

"Each year the Misfits donate money from their car show to our senior program," Hancock County Senior Citizen Director Arlene Johnson said. "So each year we collect toys to help with their toy drive. It makes our seniors proud to be able to help the less fortunate. It makes our Christmas happy."

Last year, the Misfits and Hancock County Senior Citizens dropped off more than 250 toys to deserving local children.

The Misfits also raise funds and collect toys each year for CASA (Court-Appointed Special Advocates) of Hancock County to help children in the county's foster care system.

This past April, Misfits President Terry Poore organized a parade of classic cars to ride by local nursing homes, whose residue to the COVID-19 pandemic. More than 100 classic cars from car clubs all over South Mississippi answered the call. In addition to this parade at Dunbar Village in Bay St. Louis, the group also paraded at Memorial Woodland Village in Diamondhead and Dixie White House Nursing Home in Pass Christian. The Misfits have earned multiple accolades, including being named the Outstanding Community Professionals of the Year.

Another local organization — Jeepin' the Coast — is dedicated to the cruising' lifestyle, if not necessarily the classic car approach. The group helped kick off Cruisin' the Coast this past Sunday with "Jeepin' for a Cause."

The Misfits Street Krewzers and members of the Hancock County Senior Citizens last year collected more than 250 so deserving local children could have a good Christmas.

Hundreds of Jeepin' the Coast members on Sunday helped kick off Cruisin' the Coast by participating in "Jeepin' for a Cause" to help out Costumes for a Cause in supporting Breast Cancer Awareness. Hundreds of Jeeps paraded from Bay St. Louis to Long Beach.
